The Daily Press.

HONGKONG, FEBRUARY 9TH, 1912.

THE speech delivered by the EMPEROR OF GERMANY in opening the Reichstag, in view of recent political events, is notable for two things: first, for its insistence upon the necessity for strengthening the land and sea forces of the nation, "in order to defend its honour, its possessions and its just interests"; and, secondly, for the assurance that the Government aims at the cultivation of friendly relations with all Powers on the basis of mutual respect and goodwill. To such a statement of policy no exception can be taken, but in an age when the burden of taxation for armaments has become oppressive in many countries, notwithstanding a tremendous growth of public opinion in favour of the settlement of international disputes by peaceful arbitration, the objects for which Germany proposes to strengthen her land and sea forces are bound to be subjected to searching criticism, especially in Great Britain where every desire has been shown to come to an arrangement with Germany on a question of such vital importance to the whole world. Is it necessary for nations, for example, any more than for individuals to make appeal to arms in defence of honour? Why cannot an impartial Court of Justice be trusted to defend a nation's honour as confidently as is relied upon to defend the honour of an individual when it is impugned? So in the case of a nation's possessions. Why may not an International Court absolutely secure to a nation its "possessions," just as a Court of Law in any civilised country in the world secures to an individual his rights of property? It must be admitted that, as far as concerns these two reasons assigned for a big increase of armaments, there should be no difficulty in securing both, at an infinitesimal fraction of the contemplated cost, by a reference of disputes to an International Court of Law. When, however, we come to the third object of the proposed increase of armaments viz.—"to defend the nation's just interests"—we reach the main obstacle to international agreement. What are these interests? And, who is judge of their justness? If these interests could be clearly defined and submitted for adjudication by an impartial international court of public law, how enormous would be the gain to the world, in money, in political peace and in friendship? It is precisely because these "just interests" cannot be defined in a way acceptable to any nation having aspirations for greater influence and power in the world that we must regard the day as yet remote when the war-drum will throb no longer. Every warship added to the fleet of one strong nation is considered by all other nations as menacing their "just interests," and so this "bigger-my-neighbour" game goes on being played year after year, Germany being regarded by all as the leader in the game. If Germany stopped building warships, every other nation would call a halt, too; it is primarily because Germany is ever solicitous for greater strength of arms that the whole civilised world has grown suspicious and uneasy. The naval expenditure of the eight principal naval Powers of the world was very nearly double in 1911 what it was in 1900! The total for these eight Powers—the United Kingdom, the United States, Japan, France, Russia, Germany, Italy, and Austria-Hungary—now amounts, in round figures, to £146,000,000 sterling per annum, while the cost of the world's armies amounts to about twice that sum, and the burden is constantly growing heavier. In every progressive country Governments are making demands for increased armaments. In England not only have we been enormously strengthening our fleet but we have had Field-Marshal Lord Roberts proclaiming up and down the country the need of a larger army; in the United States we have recently had the Secretary of War declaring that the American army is little more than groups of local constabulary instead of a national organisation effective for serious active service. Wherever we turn we find the same agitation going on, and while no nation is prepared to refuse money for its adequate defence, the wonder grows how long the expensive game is going to continue.

A Chinese was yesterday fined $5 or fourteen days' for assaulting an Excise officer. Defendant said he was not aware that the man he assaulted was an Excise officer. He thought he was a thief.

Before Mr. Irving yesterday, a man was sentenced to six weeks' imprisonment and four hours' stock for stealing four felt hats from the premises of Messrs. Whiteway, Laidlaw and Co.

It is announced to-day that the direct cable route to America is interrupted beyond Guam and that telegrams for America and for Honolulu will for the present have to pass via Europe and the Atlantic at the higher rates quoted on Cable Companies' tariff cards.

The reception of the children of the Ministering Children's League will be held at Government House on the dates following:—Chinese Branch, 6th February; Euro-Branch, 14th February. We are informed that Lady Lugard will not herself be able to receive them owing to her serious illness.

PRETTY WEDDING AT ST. JOHN'S CATHEDRAL.

On Wednesday at St. John's Cathedral Mr. F. K. Brownrigg, the Formosa manager of the Asiatic Petroleum Co., Ltd., son of the late John Annesley Brownrigg, M.D., and Mrs. Brownrigg of Haslemere, Surrey, was married to Miss Eardley-Wilmot, daughter of the Rev. Preb. E. A. Eardley-Wilmot of St. Jude's, South Kensington, London. The ceremony was performed by the Bishop of Victoria, assisted by the Rev. F. T. Johnson. The bride looked charming in a simple white satin dress with a fichu of white silk, and wore a chaplet of orange blossoms over a veil of soft tulle. She was given away by Capt. Addison, R.E., and was attended by Capt. Addison's small daughter as bridesmaid. Mr. R. C. Martin was best man. At the conclusion of the service, which was fully choral, Mr. Denman Fuller played Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

After the ceremony a reception, which was largely attended, was held at St. Paul's College, the residence of the Bishop of Victoria and Mrs. Lander. Mr. and Mrs. Brownrigg are spending a short honeymoon in Macao before proceeding to Taipei.

ALLEGED CABINET DISSENSIONS.

London, February 8th.

Following up the Conservative rumours of dissensions in the Cabinet the Standard gives prominence to what it describes as a "remarkable statement" by its lobbyist to the effect that recent Cabinet councils have been concerned with criticisms of Mr. Asquith's leadership.

Mr. Lloyd George's friends are said to be intriguing to bring about the fall of Mr. Asquith.

In the event of such happening it asserts that Mr. Asquith may be created a lord of appeal. Lord Morley will become Premier and Mr. Lloyd George will become the leader of the party in the House of Commons, as Mr. Asquith's friends in the Cabinet would not accept the premiership of Mr. Lloyd George.

IRISH HOME RULE.

London, February 8th.

The Daily Chronicle corrects its forecast of the Irish Home Rule Bill and says that the Irish Parliament will control excise but not customs. Hence there would be Irish members in Westminster but they would have no vote on temperance and licensing questions.

THE BRISBANE STRIKES.

London, February 8th.

Reuter's correspondent at Brisbane telegraphs that some strikers are resuming work. Non-unionists are unloading steamers.

It is understood that the Governor of the State is communicating with Mr. Harcourt, Secretary of State for the Colonies, regarding the refusal of Mr. Fisher, the Commonwealth Premier, to send troops when requested.

MR. CHURCHILL'S VISIT TO BELFAST.

London, February 8th.

It is announced that the streets of Belfast will not be lined with troops, but that strategic points will be held by concealed bodies.

Lord Londonderry, Sir Edward Carson, and Mr. Craig will be in Belfast to assist in preserving peace.

Mr. Churchill and Sir Edward Carson left for Belfast last night, travelling by different routes.

Mr. Redmond and Mr. Devlin have arrived in Belfast. The former, who has not recovered from his recent accident, will speak very briefly.

The weather is cold and the ground beneath the marquee is a quagmire.

THE AUSTRALIAN NAVY.

London, February 8th.

The Daily Mail's Sydney correspondent telegraphs that the Commonwealth is protesting to the Admiralty concerning the condition of the Australian squadron. It is alleged that some vessels are unfit and liable to break down.

BRITAIN AND GERMANY.

London, February 8th.

Lord Haldane, who had an audience with the King on Tuesday, left for Berlin yesterday. His sudden departure is occasioning much speculation.

The Daily Mail says that it is connected with important political business associated with the speech of Mr. Lloyd George on Saturday and the audiences which Sir Edward Grey and Lord Lansdowne had with the King yesterday.

OPENING OF THE REICHSTAG.

THE KAISER'S SPEECH.

London, February 8th.

The Kaiser opened the Reichstag to-day. He emphasised the necessity for a continuance of social reform and said he was confident that the Imperial finances would soon be in a sound condition. The Government would adhere to its fiscal policy in preparing the conclusion of commercial treaties. The prosperous development of works of peace at home and overseas depended on the Empire remaining powerful enough to defend its honour, its possessions and its just interests, and therefore it was constantly solicitous of the strengthening of the land and sea forces of the nation, which was not lacking in men able to bear arms. He announced that bills would be introduced to secure this end. In passing these the Reichstag would render a great service to the Fatherland. He referred to the Franco-German Agreement as a fresh proof of Germany's willingness to settle international disputes amicably whenever it could do so in consonance with its dignity and interests. The Government aimed at the cultivation of the alliances with Austria-Hungary and Italy, and also friendly relations with all Powers on the basis of mutual respect and goodwill. He concluded by expressing his trust in the healthy physical strength of the German people, and said he confidently looked beyond the struggles of the day to the future.

REBELLION IN TIMOR.

London, February 8th.

Reuter's correspondent at Lisbon telegraphs that the natives in Timor have rebelled.

The Governor has asked for a warship to be dispatched.

Reuter's correspondent at The Hague telegraphs that Queen Wilhelmina drove out yesterday for the first time since the indisposition which confined her to her bed for weeks.

THE KING OF DENMARK.

London, February 8th.

Reuter's correspondent at Copenhagen telegraphs that the King yesterday took suddenly ill while out walking. It proves to be a slight inflammation of the lung.

THE PORTUGUESE COLONIES.

London, February 8th.

Reuter learns that there is no truth in the statement that negotiations are progressing between Great Britain and Germany regarding the partition of the Portuguese Colonies in Africa.

The Anglo-German Treaty of 1898, upon which there has been so much speculation, refers to a purely hypothetical situation and only comes into operation when Portugal of her own free will agrees to dispose of her colonies.

ITALY AND TURKEY.

London, February 8th.

Reuter's correspondent at Constantinople wires that the Cabinet has decided to enforce the closing of all Italian institutions in Turkey, including private banks and insurance companies.

FLOODS IN SOUTHERN EUROPE.

Reuter's correspondent at Berlin states that Lord Charles Beresford is staying at the British Embassy. He lunched with the Kaiser at the Palace yesterday afternoon.

Admirals Tirpitz, Muller and Hollmann and General Heering were also guests at the Kaiser's luncheon to Lord Charles Beresford.

THE ESPIONAGE CASE.

London, February 8th.

The outcry against the harshness of Stewart's sentence, the secrecy of the proceedings and the reliance of the Court on a witness of most doubtful antecedents continues, and meanwhile excites the indignation of Germany, which resents the impugning of the justice of its Supreme Court.

The national joint Conference of Coalminers met in London to-day. The withdrawal may wreck the Conference or possibly lead to a settlement with the rest of the country.

BRITISH INDIA STEAM NAV. CO., LTD.

NEW SERVICE TO THE FAR EAST.

Messrs. MacKinnon, Mackenzie & Co., of Calcutta, Managing Agents of the British India S. N. Co., Ltd., inform us that it has been decided to inaugurate a fortnightly service from Rangoon to Kobe calling en route at Penang, Singapore and Hongkong. The first vessel of the new line, viz. the s.s. Fulda, 3,154 tons gross, 2,702 tons nett, left Rangoon on the 30th ultimo and may be expected in Hongkong on the 12th instant, leaving for Kobe two days later.

The service as at present arranged will be maintained by four vessels, all modern steamers, especially adapted for the safe conveyance of cargo, in addition to which ample first class passenger accommodation will be available. The s.s. Fulda, leaving on the 14th instant for Kobe direct, will have accommodation for 20 first-class passengers, and in view of the difficulty at present experienced in obtaining direct communication between Hongkong and Japan, the new line should be a great benefit, especially to those travelling during the summer months when short holidays are occasionally possible to arrange.

Messrs. Jardine, Matheson & Co., Ltd., will act as Agents in Hongkong.

THEATRE ROYAL.

"Romeo and Juliet," well described as Shakespeare's sublime tragedy, was last night's play at the theatre, and again there was an absolutely full house. Mr. Matheson Lang played Romeo and Miss Hutin Britton Juliet, and a more admirable presentation of the play one could not wish to see. The leading characters were perfect studies, and they were well supported by the other players. Mr. Hugh Owen was Paris and Mr. A. W. Tyrer Escalus. Mr. Raudall Holloway took the part of Montague and Mr. Stevens that of Capulet, while Mr. Charles Vane was the friar.

The play was splendidly mounted—the moonlight love scene outside Capulet's house, the interior of Friar Laurence's cell, Juliet's bedroom, and the final scenes of the drama were in their effectiveness such as have never been seen on the stage of the Colony's theatre before.

At the conclusion of all the previous plays the audiences have given expression to their delight and satisfaction by unusual demonstrations, and last night proved no exception to the rule.

To-night Mr. Matheson Lang and Miss Hutin Britton will be seen in Jerome K. Jerome's remarkable work "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," the play which has raised more comment than any of the century and has proved of such unflinching interest in England, America and Australia where Mr. Lang and Miss Britton reckoned it their greatest success.

The great demand for seats to see "Sweet Nell of Old Drury" on Wednesday night has induced Messrs. Lang and Holloway to repeat that delightful romantic comedy on Wednesday next, as numerous requests have reached them from disappointed playgoers who were unable to obtain admission on the first performance.

GRANDMOTHER'S CURE FOR A COLD was a hot bath followed by a purgative at bed time. The same remedy holds good now, but instead of a purgative use PINKLETS, the little Pink laxative. Tiny but thorough, as gentle as nature. So, write to a tube of Chemists, or The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 84p, Szechuen Road, Shanghai, post free.

HOME AND CHINA AFFAIRS

London, January 10th

LORD LONSDALE AND THE KAISER.

The Earl of Lonsdale, our richest and most sporting earl, has come out in a new place—as the exponent of the Kaiser's peace sentiments towards England. We all knew that the German Emperor was a great friend of the bluff northern noble, but to find the latter discoursing on peace is a new turn of the limelight.—At least once every year the earl finds an invitation awaiting him to cross over to Berlin, and occasionally he entertains the Kaiser at Lowther Castle, Cumberland. In fact he is credited with having spent quite £60,000 on such royal entertainment. "The worst of being an Emperor," the Kaiser once said to him, "is that one has to listen to such a lot of humbug." Very likely his Majesty will be at Lowther Castle again this year to get away from the humbug, but on that the Earl refuses to make any definite announcements. From what he has said, however, it is clear the two friends have just had some heart to heart talk in Berlin on the relations of England and Germany, "I am in hopes," he says,— "that this wave of international feeling will pass away and that this year we may see his Majesty in England. Should he come to England my home is always at his disposal, as he knows, and I should not be at all surprised, supposing the two great monarchs of England and Germany meet in England, if the Emperor were to command me to put the Lowther shooting at his disposal—which would be most gladly done. But it is not for me to invite his Majesty. It is for him to make the statement that he is coming."

Passing to the international relations, Lord Lansdale declared emphatically that the Kaiser was a man of peace. "I have always made it a point," he said, "after I have been with His Majesty, to repeat nothing of what he has said. If he gave me leave to make it public I could repeat thousands of things that would astonish Englishmen with regard to the warm feelings he entertains for England. As I have received such great personal kindness from him, entirely of a private character, it is almost impossible for me to do so."

"I am quite sure the Emperor is quite at a loss to understand the position the Government has taken up. As regards the war scare, I confess I don't understand it. My humble experience of Germany is that there is a very strong trade feeling, such as is sure to be found where nations compete in commerce; but I also know that the German populace (whatever the newspapers may have written) always looked upon England rather as an ally than anything else. The general feeling was: 'The two nations fought side by side at Waterloo, the Emperor is one of the strongest admirers of England. Why should these two suddenly squabble and take reverse sides?' But now it goes beyond trade disputes, and that speech by Mr. Lloyd-George on the Agadir incident has created such an effect on the minds of German subjects that I think it will take a good many years to live it down. The difference that has arisen in international feeling that has grown up in international feeling during the last ten or fifteen years is perfectly remarkable. If the Emperor had not resolved, almost from the outset, not to have war, it would have been very difficult for any Cabinet to have resisted. The idea that the Emperor ever intended to attack England is absolutely untrue. The one great 'head' of peace, the man whose argument is that a large and an efficient army is the best provision for the maintenance of peace, as well as a preparation for war, is the German Emperor, and nobody who knows him more or less intimately could ever get over the fact that his one horror (until he is compelled in the interests of his country) is the thought of war. He would do anything rather than create a war. There is no greater soldier, there is no greater mind; and no great soldier, sailor, or man of great mind in the present day would accept responsibility for the awful happenings that are inevitable in war under present conditions. Especially is this so with the German Emperor, in whose realms all the latest scientific, human-destroying instruments and projectors are at their highest efficiency." Finally Lord Lansdale declared that the talk of a sudden German attack on England was "ridiculous and absurd." "I am perfectly convinced there is no greater ally, no human being more devoted to England, Englishmen, English sports, and to the English in general—so far as is consistent with the interests of his own nation—than the German Emperor."

THE SITUATION IN IRELAND.

There is a curious situation in Ireland just now, in view of the approach of Home Rule—though it is by no means certain that measure will get through under two years and nobody dares to predict that the Government will hold office so long. But the extremists on both sides are preparing for the accomplishment. The Irish-Americans who still love the "ould sod" are in many cases prospecting for the employment of capital in Ireland, including the development of coal mining. That augurs well for the dormant resources of the land. On the other hand scores of the old families and landowners of the island who have stuck to their properties till now are preparing to quit rather than remain under a Home Rule Government.

THE EUROPEAN HAIR MARKET.

So far the cutting of Chinese queues has not affected the European hair market. Probably the flood of pigtails is yet to come upon us. The annual hair fair at Limoges in France anyway has yielded prices well up to recent years. One Paris buyer secured two hundred pounds at about fifty-five shillings a pound, whereas the merchants in coarser varieties expect to pay no more than ten shillings a pound for the Chinese hair when the rush of it comes. Extra prices of course were given for exceptional grades. Fine white hair brought £12 to £14 a pound, and some of the rarer and more beautiful tints of red hair were nearly as expensive. Dealers from all over the world were in attendance.

RUSSIA AND MONGOLIA.

It is curious how soon the coup in Mongolia has followed the emphatic announcements in the semi-official press in St. Petersburg that Russia had no designs on Chinese territory. But in European capitals, I understand, financiers have expected this stroke for some weeks and one important house not only predicted it but advised the Czar's Government to carry it out, at the same time promising to back the enterprise if necessary with the monetary influence of their connections.

BUSINESS MANAGEMENT AT THE ADMIRALTY.

Business management at the Admiralty has set in with a vengeance, and on the whole the changes made by Winston Churchill are approved, though some naval centres are inclined to be slow in delivering judgment. The declaration that the naval defence arrangements of the nation will be sleepless and night and day readiness will be the rule has made a good impression. The Colonial Office will be the poorer for the loss of Sir Francis Hopwood, who becomes an additional Civil Lord of the Admiralty and the "buyer and business manager" of the naval department. He has had a wide range of experience up and down the Empire and the King had a great idea of his abilities. The leading strategist of the new War Staff also has been in many parts of the globe. Rear-Admiral Ernest Troubridge is just on fifty years old, but his official career has included terms as naval attaché in Austria, Spain, and Japan and he has also been active in various places. Rear-Admiral David Beatty, the youngest admiral in the service as he is sometimes called, who will be private secretary to Winston Churchill and be called the Naval Secretary, is distinguished both for having one of the most beautiful wives in the country and for his own great ability. He has seen service out in China. All these appointments are taken to mean not merely innovations but also the development of quite a modern spirit of alertness at the Admiralty.

THE TERRITORIALS.

It may be said that the spirit is infectious, for I hear that in regard to the Territorials there is to be a remarkable increase in range accommodation, forthwith, both for training artillery and musketry. Major-General Cowans, the Director-General, is about to take a provincial tour to see what can be done to develop this home defence force, about which so much controversy has raged of late. Some new devices are to be tried with a view to their installation on these ranges, including a clever Australian invention for automatically flashing the result of each shot to the elbow of the marksman. An expert gunnery officer who has tried it tells me this device will revolutionise the training of the soldiers at the ranges and enormously contribute to the rapid development of efficiency. Another line of development will be the increase of cavalry that it is said the War Office are contemplating.

THE LABOUR WORLD.

That the labour situation is most menacing is evident all over the country. The Tom Manns and Ben Tilletts are plainly and unflinchingly out for extremes and revolution. Vernon Hartshorn, the agitator of South Wales, who has gained the ear of the turbulent miners and led them away from calmer spirits like "Mabon," the former trusted leader, say so without any bones about it. The same extravagant incendiarism is evident in Lancashire among the cotton workers, and everywhere the wires are pulling to bring together all the transport workers in readiness for a great tug of war with the employers. One of these days we shall have to face the riot, and repression will have to descend upon the makers of mischief. I am told that the Government fear this development and the onus of having to place the heavy heel of authority on the necks of rebellious labour more than any thing else, for such a necessity would mean the end of the present coalition in the House of Commons. In spite of the gravity of the situation, one finds the Countess of Warwick announced for the same platform at an early meeting as the arch-agitators who long to see the country in the throes of a war to the death between capital and labour. It is a singularly unedifying spectacle.

THE OPIUM CONFERENCE.
CAUSES OF DELAY.

[FROM 'THE TIMES' SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT]
The Hague, Jan. 10.
A week ago there existed a very general impression among the members of the Opium Conference that the duties which lay before them, upon its re-assembling on the 8th inst., would amount to little more than the confirming of official minutes, and some general and uncontentious discussion preliminary to the confirmation of the Drafting Committee's final text of the Convention. It was believed that a few days would suffice to bring the labours of the Conference to the point of signatures and mutual felicitations. Within a few hours of the delegates, however, it became known that these hopes were not likely to be realized, and that the Hague would in all probability see its guests for another fortnight at least. For the period of the recess had, very properly, been devoted in certain quarters, and most notably in Berlin and London, to a careful and systematic consideration of the terms of the proposed Convention, as drafted on December 22, and to examination of the probable effect in practical working of several of its clauses, especially those referring to the future working of the international-controlled trade in morphine and cocaine. As the result of these inquiries, the further discussion and modification of several clauses of the Convention was to be expected.

The detailed report of the Drafting Committee, a long document, was issued and circulated to the delegates on the evening of the 8th inst. It embodied all the materials gradually compiled and revised for the purposes of the Convention, and prepared, as far as possible, for the final discussion. Generally speaking, it maintains the form of the Convention as drafted, but where differences of opinion, or new proposals, have arisen the facts and arguments are stated for the guidance of the Conference. The special Chinese resolutions, originally intended to form the subject of a separate Convention, may possibly be included in the general agreement; discussion of this point is not yet concluded. The clauses dealing with ratification and denunciation will be further discussed and probably a number of amendments will be suggested. The Convention dependent upon the unanimous adherence of all non-signatory nations, and some divergence of opinion in regard to the length of time to elapse before it is made effective. Mr. Asser, the international jurist whose assistance has been invoked for the business of final drafting, has, I believe, expressed the opinion that the results obtained by the present Conference must necessarily be of a somewhat tentative character, and that a revision of sections of the Convention will probably be required at a later date when circumstances shall have demonstrated its practical effect of international regulation upon the opium, morphine, and cocaine trades.

DIFFICULTY OF THE PROBLEMS INVOLVED: It will certainly not be matter for surprise if the first results of the present Convention fall short of the highest expectations. The ground which it is proposed to cover is enormous; the amount of definite information available in many instances is very limited, and the time has been far too short to permit of systematic investigation of the questions at issue. It is also to be observed that the delegates met at the outset under difficult working conditions, without any definite programme or preparation of precise data, hampered by the language barrier, and frequently ignorant of the conflicting interests and policies which the Conference is expected to reconcile. The problems which it is expected to solve are of a most intricate and delicate nature. The British plenipotentiaries are responsible only to the British Government and, in a certain sense, to public opinion, their decisions being independent of Parliamentary approval, so that ratification follows their signature, generally speaking, as a matter of course. Any obligations accepted by Great Britain under an international Convention are naturally binding upon the Dominion, Colonies, or Dependencies concerned, except where special reservations are made to the contrary. But with Germany, such a Convention as this, involving the necessity for legislative measures in which the autonomous rights of the individual States are affected, requires, before ratification, the expressed consent not only of the Reichstag but of the Bundesrath. (The Federal Council.) State problem occurs also in America and will necessitate intricate legislation. Small wonder, therefore, that questions have arisen and delays occurred; for the business of reconciling the Federal and State points of view is not one which can be hurriedly disposed of. The chief difficulty of the German delegates has been to devise a formula, generally acceptable and at the same time effective, whereby the obligations imposed under the Convention may properly be imposed by the Imperial Government upon the several States under the Empire, while avoiding, at the same time, any sacrifice of German commercial interests in the drug trade. This formula has now been agreed upon and has been referred to Berlin for confirmation. As a meeting held yesterday between the British and German delegates much good work was done in the direction of reasonable compromise between the conflicting interests of the two countries and chiefly in regard to the cocaine trade, so that at the present moment there is every prospect of a business-like and workable agreement. The success of the Conference as a whole evidently depends upon the attainment of this result.

THE LANGUAGE DIFFICULTY: The Conference met yesterday for the first time since the adjournment, but concerned itself only with the confirmation of the minutes, in arrears for several meetings owing to delays in the preparation of the official French text. This language difficulty has indeed been conspicuous throughout the Conference, for the President himself is not familiar with French and the great majority of the speeches and reports have been made in English, to be subsequently rendered into the official French, by way of the Dutch language. Even the official stenographer to the Conference is not fully conversant with French. The result of these conditions is necessarily reflected in official records and translation work, which leave a good deal to be desired. The diplomatic world is conservative in its ways, but the time must surely be approaching when international conference on commercial questions will be conducted in the language most familiar to the commercial world, or at least in that of the initiating country, reserving French for purely political and diplomatic work.

At the meeting to-day little progress was made with the more important of the outstanding questions, the German delegates being without instructions from Berlin as to the proposed arrangements with regard to the cocaine trade. Much time was occupied by a somewhat irrelevant and discursive speech from the youthful delegate for Persia and by a subsequent discussion between him and the Chinese representative, which was unusually suggestive of the Oriental lack of humorous perception. Bishop Brent, however, continues to keep the general proceedings on a high plane of good feeling and serious purpose, and there is every reason to hope that the final results of the Conference will be generally satisfactory.

your health is very far from satisfactory. The slightest knowledge of pathological science is sufficient to inform you how precarious is the condition of the person who is "only middling." The power of disease-resistance is practically nil, and an ordinary atmospheric change or dietetic irregularity may lay you up for weeks.

Take

care therefore that you possess nothing less than vigorous, robust health. Just as nothing succeeds like Success so there is no better guarantee of sustained health than never to let yourself run down. INTIMATION

ELLAMS B. 19 ROTARY DUPLICATOR.

Has achieved a success unequalled by any other Rotary-Duplicator. This is due to simplicity of working and the excellence of fitting of the parts. It has caused a complete revolution in Duplicating, and the production of perfect copies by the Rotary-Machine is now a certainty.

From a well written original any boy can make thousands of copies on any paper, and each one will be perfect.

There is absolutely nothing to go out of order, and the apparatus is always ready for use. There is a mechanical device which allows the copy to be made in any position on the paper.

The pressure-roller is regulated by a simple lever, and the arrangement is so made that it is impossible for the operator to have difficulty with his work.

The printing cylinder is geared so that one turn of the handle makes a copy. A most important advantage ELLAMS "B 19" possesses is that the ink never drips and runs all over the Duplicator as on other Machines.

The ink never dries on the rollers or pads, and copies can be made on any kind of paper. Moreover, this ink does not stain the hands in any way.

There is no peculiar or complicated fastening of the stencil-sheet to the Duplicator. The ELLAMS "B 19" Duplicator is so absolutely simple that it requires no experience whatever to produce perfect copies from it—there is no calculating or unwinding of parts.

The Machine is fitted with an automatic Copy-counter recording instantly the total number of copies taken.

We stock three different kinds of this Duplicator:
1. For duplicating typewritten documents ... Price $100.
2. For duplicating both type and handwritten documents ... " $115.
3. For duplicating both type and handwritten documents with self-feeding attachment ... " $150.

Complete with all supplies ready for immediate use. Considering the excellent workmanship of the apparatus, the prices are very reasonable and compare most favourably with any Duplicator on the market.

We guarantee that the Machines will give complete satisfaction.
